

HOCH SAVED AT ELEVENTH HOUR

Governor Deneen Grants Convicted Wife Murderer Chance To Appeal Case.

SAVED BUT BY A FEW MINUTES NOW

Friends Come To His Rescue And Raise Funds To Pay The Expenses Of Carrying Case To Supreme Court.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE]
Chicago, July 28.—At twelve twenty-five Governor Deneen granted Johann Hoch, the convicted wife murderer another reprieve until August.

JOHANN HOCH.
(Credited by Police of Chicago and New York with Having Over 20 Wives.)

25th. This reprieve was granted on the assurance from the Chicago officers that the requisite sum, eleven hundred dollars, needed to appeal his case to the Supreme Court, had been raised in good faith. Hoch was not surprised at the news as he has remained confident that he would eventually be freed.

Eleventh Hour.
Hoch was to have been hung between the hours of ten and two today. Sheriff Barrett left the dead march until the last minute so that Hoch's friends might make a final attempt to secure the funds necessary to appeal the case to the state supreme court.

Friends Raised.
Dr. L. H. Montgomery, a well known physician and Mrs. May Wilson, a woman of wealth, called at the jail at ten thirty and announced they had raised the amount needed by Hoch. States Attorney Healy informed them he would communicate the fact to the governor.

Special Interest.
Montgomery has taken special interest in the case from a scientific point of view asserting in his opinion the personal analysis was incorrect and that Hoch could not have committed the crimes.

Hoch Satisfied.
When informed the money had been raised to save him from the gallows Hoch smiled and called for another cigar. He placed his feet on the table and said: "This only proves my repeated contention that I will not hang." The death watch say Hoch is the gamest an he ever stood guard over.

Outline As To The Demands That Japan May Make, Cause Much Surprise.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE]
St. Petersburg, July 28.—The substance of the interview in New York with M. Sato, spokesman of the Japanese peace envoys, on the position of Japan in the peace negotiations was reproduced in the papers here and passed almost without comment, only the Noyce Vremya indulging in a sarcastic fling, saying that "Japan has conducted the war quite economically, only a million a day, but she had better present the bill to those who are furnishing the sluiceway of war, and not to the country upon which the war was forced."

A supplementary statement specifying the cession of the island of Sakhalin and fixing the amount of the indemnity for the cost of the war, contained no surprise and cause but little flurry except in circles directly interested.

The bourse was not affected.

Show of Cards Surprised.
In diplomatic circles a general feeling of surprise is professed that Japan has shown her cards to such an extent before the meeting of the plenipotentiaries. There is no unity of opinion regarding the bearing of the interview on the prospects of peace.

It is realized that much will depend on the extent to which M. Witte has been instructed to push opposition to the payment of an indemnity. Though one prominent diplomat said that, according to his information, M. Witte

INVESTIGATION IS WELL THOUGHT OF

Business and Insurance Men Generally Look with Favor on Probing of the Equitable.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
New York, July 28.—That interest in the insurance affair of this state, which has been at white heat for the past few months, has received new impetus is shown by the wide attention given the doings of the special committee of the Legislature appointed to investigate into the affairs of the Equitable Life Assurance Society. The committee, the remaining five members of whom have just been appointed by Speaker Nixon, will get down to work at once. The general opinion among insurance and business men both is that the investigation will be a good thing. At least it is believed that it can do no harm under the circumstances and as one official stated, so much unfavorable publicity has been brought to light in connection with the Equitable, there is hardly anything that would be surprising from that source at present.

REJECT OFFER FROM ENGLISH GOVERNMENT

Jews Will Not Take the Land Offered Them in Eastern Africa for a New Home.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE]
Basel, Switzerland, July 28.—At today's session of the Zionist Congress the executive committee advised the rejection of the offer of the British government for a tract of land in east Africa for a Jewish colony. While the country is rich and would easily support 150 thousand, it is inaccessible and surrounded by dangerous tribes.

LOSES SIGHT OF BOTH EYES THROUGH A DREAD DISEASE.

Thomas H. Leslie an Old Newspaper Man Meets Sad Affliction in Omaha.

Thomas H. Leslie, father of Dr. L. Leslie, advertising manager of the Gazette, has just lost the sight of both of his eyes owing to an attack of glaucoma. Mr. Leslie was for many years associate editor of the Galena, Ill., Daily Gazette, and at one time editor of the Herald, published at Lancaster, Wis., recently underwent an operation in a hospital here for the removal of one of his eyes, and next week an operation will be performed for the removal of the other eye. An attack of glaucoma rendered the first operation necessary and will render the second operation necessary also. He is a veteran of the civil war, having served for four years in Company I, Sixteenth Wisconsin Infantry. He was born in Lafayette county, Wis., his father, Capt. Edward Leslie, being one of the pioneers of that county, and for years was well known in political and newspaper circles in southwestern Wisconsin and northwestern Illinois.

GOVERNMENT STEEL ORDERS MAY GO TO TRUST COMPETITOR

Contest On Between Big Corporation and Midvale Steel Company for Furnishing Uncle Sam with Armor Plates.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Washington, July 28.—Government officials as well as steel men are interested in the contest for government work between the Steel Trust and the Midvale Steel Company of Philadelphia. The tests being made by the government of the armor plate by the latter will probably result in the placing of large contracts with the Midvale concern. The company has a secret process of making armor plate and great interest is shown in the test of its product for this reason, as well as for the fight which they are making against the trust.

BOTTLE MAKERS ASK A WAGE REDUCTION

Manufacturers Cause Excitement by Demand in Conference with Employees.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Atlantic City, N. J., July 28.—A joint conference of committees of the Bottle Manufacturers' Association of the United States and Canada and the Glass Bottle Workers' National Association was held here today. The conference was for the purpose of arranging a wage scale for the ensuing year and the manufacturers' committee created quite a little sensation by demanding a reduction on account of machine competition.

CHAUNCEY ARRIVES HOME TO VINDICATE HIMSELF

New York, July 28.—Among the passengers due here tonight from Europe is United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew, whose name has been mentioned in the Equitable scandal. He is coming to vindicate himself, so friends say.

GLASSES CURE FOR STAMMERING

Different Colored Lenses Work Wonders in St. Paul Clinic.

St. Paul, Minn., July 28.—Two bad cases of stammering were treated by the use of eyeglasses. Chalmers Prentice of Chicago demonstrated the method in a clinic before the American Association of Opticians. One case was apparently successfully cured in a few minutes. The other case far more pronounced, did not yield so readily, but was manifestly improved in a short time. The successful case was that of Arlon J. Klinck, an optician of Little Falls. He stammered badly. In less than ten minutes the case had been treated successfully and the subject was able to talk distinctly without the slightest stammering. The other subject was Wright Page, a St. Paul student. As different lenses were adjusted to his eyes from time to time he improved steadily.

COME TO AMERICA FOR TRADE HINTS

Members of Recently Organized Board of Trade at San Juan Leave for United States.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
San Juan, P. R., July 28.—Within a few days a committee of members of the board of trade recently organized here will sail for the United States and visit several of the leading cities in the hope of becoming better acquainted with the methods used by American boards. The new board intends to constitute itself into a general bureau of information and its officers will solicit the co-operation of all interested in gathering data which may prove of value. There is absolutely no politics in the organization, which is commercial and industrial in every sense. The board has the support and approval of the government and of all interests and will have representatives in all island cities.

RESIGNS HIS PLACE BECAUSE OF CHARGES

George T. Moore Reported To Have Used Official Position for His Own Gain.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE]
Washington, July 28.—The resignation of George T. Moore, chief of physiologists of the department of agriculture was tendered Secretary Wilson this morning and was immediately accepted. The act is taken as a result of the filing of charges that Moore had exploited "nitro culture," a soil fertilizer, for his individual profit. Accompanying the resignation was a lengthy statement in which Moore defended his official conduct.

ORGANIZED FOR FIGHT TO THE END

Governor Blahchard of Louisiana, Leaves New Orleans To Perfect State Organization.

BUSINESS MEN JOIN IN THE BATTLE

City Of New Orleans Is Divided In Ward Districts, And All Merchants Are Assessed According To Their Rating.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE]
New Orleans, July 28.—Governor Blahchard returned to the state capital to perfect the state organization to combat yellow fever and mosquitoes in accordance with suggestions of the medical authorities. Beginning this morning the ward organizations of the city began a concentrated movement to stamp out the disease. Every new case will be isolated and all physicians in the city notified. The citizens committee assessed every business man in the city according to his commercial rating, and none refused. The yellow fever hospital is now filled with patients and new cases are being received as they develop. The quarantine is apparently very effective.

With every class and condition of the New Orleans population stirred to the depths in a campaign to show that yellow fever can and will be stamped out in the city without becoming contagious, the situation has assumed a unique phase. "We are fighting," announced one business man, "to do more than simply save a few lives just now. We are fighting to kill the big bear of quarantine that has stood a specter at the feast of every proposed development of the city's commerce. We are going to show that yellow fever can be stamped out."

The various organizations, ward, general, precinct, beat and square are keeping on unawed by the spread of the disease. Believe Situation Is in Hand. All the forces engaged in this battle joined in expressing the belief that while the situation has been and is serious, enough success has already been achieved in the application of the methods applied, as the result of the work of the Reed commission in Cuba, to justify the hope that for the first time in the history of the country what threatened to be a malignant epidemic of yellow fever will be stamped out before the frost comes and that New Orleans will be spared the horrors of the epidemics of 1853, 1887 and 1878 here and a century ago in New York and Philadelphia.

Blessing in Disguise. It is the opinion of Dr. J. H. White, in charge of the marine hospital forces, and of the state and local health officials, that if destruction of the stegomyia checks the spread of the disease, and enables the gradual eradication of the cases in hand and those which may be expected to appear for some time to come in the infected sections, the present visitation of the plague will have been a blessing in disguise, since it will have demonstrated the ability of science to control the most virulent outbreak of the fever in the south.

The citizens' committee had 300 men in the field, under the direction of Dr. Farrar Richardson, United States marine hospital service, who detailed one inspector to every infected block, and gave each man enough assistants to carry on thorough work. Protects Travelers. Dr. White has arranged for the transference throughout New Orleans of all transcontinental passengers bound from the east or north to Arizona, New Mexico, or the Pacific coast. He will have a special officer to go with the passengers on their trip across the city and give them a clean bill of health that will send them on their way. Of the cases reported, several are among negroes, hitherto uninfected. Eight new foci have developed, all of which have been seized on and are being subjected to the most stringent disinfection. Cases of fever are definitely reported from Bayou Goula, from Point Barrow, La., Tampa, Fla., and Fort St. Philip, La. There are rumors of the epidemic of yellow fever will be stamped out before the frost comes and that New Orleans will be spared the horrors of the epidemics of 1853, 1887 and 1878 here and a century ago in New York and Philadelphia.

WILL BANQUET BRYAN WITH MUCH ECLAT TONIGHT

Democrats From All Over The State Will Unite To Do Him Great Honor.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison, Wis., July 28.—Col. Wm. Jennings Bryan of Nebraska, twice the defeated presidential candidate of the allied opposition to the republican party, is receiving this afternoon at the Monona Lake Chautauqua assembly here and tonight will be the principal speaker at a complimentary reception and banquet tendered in his honor by the democrats of Wisconsin. The banquet surpasses the assembly speech in political significance, for it is expected that the democratic leader will make an address which is designed to point the way for the democracy not only of Wisconsin but of the nation as well. The function was planned and arranged with the knowledge and co-operation of Col. Bryan, who gave his hearty consent to the movement before the plans of the original movers were allowed to become known. The announcement was made during the closing days of the last session of the legislature and the first statement was signed by practically all the democratic members of the Wisconsin law-making body. Between 300 and 400 prominent democrats from all over the state will be present and the affair will be far more elaborate and brilliant than most of these functions at which the Nebraskan allows himself to be present, for instead of the "dollar dinner" for which the distinguished orator has repeatedly announced his preference, the dinner tonight will cost $2.50 a head. Col. William F. Vilas, it is said, is in sympathy with the event, but he will not be present, nevertheless. There will be a number of short speeches by Wisconsin men, to be followed by Col. Bryan, who will talk politics for an hour. The other speakers will be Col. George W. Bird of Madison, toastmaster; Assemblyman J. M. Crowley of Milwaukee, state central committeeman M. L. Luck of Mayville, Congressman Wieske of Sheboygan, National Committeeman T. E. Ryan of Waukesha.

SOCIETIES SCORE GOV. HERRICK BE WATCHFUL OF YOUR LIVE BAIT

Presbyterian Convention Denounces Ohio Executive.

Hamilton, Ohio, July 28.—The convention of young people's societies of the second synod of the United Presbyterian church, embracing most of six states, before closing its biennial session adopted resolutions read by Rev. I. M. Knipe of Bell Center fiercely attacking Gov. Herrick. His nomination is called "an insult to Christian citizenship" and the governor himself is referred to as "one who has proven himself the enemy to decency and sobriety." The resolution was adopted unanimously.

Error in Cotton Report. Washington, July 28.—In the revised cotton report correcting previous errors the department of agriculture made a new error. It said the June estimate by Mr. Hyde was "lower" than the facts warranted. It was really "higher."

Scan the contents of your minnow pail closely, fisherman, and if there is a yearling pickerel or bass keeping company with the club and shiners, the infant carp and suckers that make up the live bait, restore him quickly to the stream or lake. Deputy Game Warden Peter Drafiel is now on a new trail. He will catch you if you don't watch out. The officer was prompted to undertake this new mission by the presence of numerous small gamefish fry on the set lines which were captured in Montevideo recently. He believes that the practice is quite common of using these small minnows which the state spends good money to plant for bait and he proposes to stamp it out.

JOHN HOCH'S LIFE FULL OF INTERESTING STORIES

Man Who Missed Death By A Hair Breadth, Has Been Married Many Times In Past Few Years.

By the narrow margin of a few minutes Johann Hoch was granted a reprieve from the gallows and he was given until next August to either prove his innocence or being finally adjudged guilty by the supreme court. Hoch's escape is as marvelous as has been his adventuresome life. A brief history of the numerous marriages he is alleged to have contracted and the deaths of his numerous wives is as follows:

Hoch's Life.
Johann Hoch, or Schmidt, as he declared his rightful name to be, was a short, heavy-set German-Frenchman, about 40 years old, bald, excepting on the sides of his head where he wore black, carefully combed, silken hair plaited with white threads. His nose was long and aquiline; his lips thick, wide and sensuous, masking irregular, carefully-kept teeth. A blond mustache ornamented his upper lip. The remainder of his face was clean shaven. His head, neck and shoulders were leonine. His features had a Jewish cast; his manner was courteous, deferential, and always seemingly considerate for others. He received those who approached him with a smile and confidential nod, and usually a handshaking. He studied to establish confidential relations by whispering something of no consequence, as if imparting an important secret, or he encouraged, he put his hand upon the knee or shoulder of the person he came in contact with and parted him "affectionately." He was gentle as a woman; in fact, his movements suggested a femininity, as if he were an obsessed woman. His manners and nature were like a tiger's foot; soft and velvety, but sheathing talons.

Very Foxy.
When Hoch met middle aged German widows, he adopted the reserve of a refined German tradesman. He manifested courteous consideration for them while planning to get their money and kill them by poison. He sought externally to realize the ideal of a husband in the mind of the average German illiterate woman who has tolled for years and saved money. His black broad-cloth suit, white tie, white linen shirt, cuffs, and collar, glistening shoes, nicely combed hair, round face, and cultured manner, convinced his victims he was a desirable "catch." He forgot his reserve long enough to boast of his wealth. This was the most enticing bait he offered. The majority of his victims married him in the hope they would escape a life of drudgery and become the mistress of a rich man's house.

His Only Motive.
Hoch's motive always was gain. He was impelled by a commercial spirit. Other men deal in commodities to profit upon the labor of producers. Hoch dealt in crime. The credulity of his victims produced his profits. He had a pleasing personality and sold it many times. Murder was incidental to the business. Like all regular homicides, Hoch was a moral idiot. He had no conscience to be harrowed by remorse, no moral nature to see wrong in injuring others; no sympathy to be outraged by witnessing suffering. His was an intelligence capable only of realizing it was necessary to destroy life to obtain results desired. He was a modern Henry VIII, without the power of the regal uxoricide. What England's royal wife-murderer did with the connivance of churchmen and statesmen, Hoch did secretly through his own knowledge of chemistry, and the confiding faith of his victims. He tried the plan of marrying a woman to get her money, and having procured it, used poison to get rid of her. It worked so well he adopted it as a regular plan.

Very Catlike.
Hoch was a gentle, smiling, demonstratively affectionate, mild-mannered hypocrite. When he asked the hand of a victim he declared he "wanted to provide her a good home." When she became ill from arsenic he summoned medical aid, sat by the bedside, held her hand, and called her "sweetheart."

When Judge Kersten passed sentence upon him, Hoch was asked if he had anything to say. As if willing to sacrifice his life merely to conform to the court's idea of propriety he replied, "Judge, if you think I am guilty, I am willing to lose my life." His dominating trait was vanity. If the women who thronged the court room watched him he maneuvered his nails, smoothed his hair with his fat hands, straightened up, pulled his whiskers out of his clothes and posed. Occasionally for a brief instant, the full sense of calamity was upon him. Then he collapsed and suffered a panic of fright. Recovering, he would glance up quickly, look about the room to find sympathetic eyes, and smile at one of the women spectators. After his conviction in the solitude of his cell, he was borne up by his egoism. He spoke of himself as a third person of interest and importance. He said, "Johann will die like a man." Again the hypocrite, while his eyes were malevolent with hatred for the woman who caused his death, he declared that his chief regret was that she would be disgraced. While professing love for Mrs. Fischer-Hoch, he adroitly insinuated that she poisoned her sister, Mrs. Welker-Hoch. Anxious to pose as a gentleman he added: "I believe my wife died of arsenic poisoning, but no gentleman would say what he thought if it might incriminate a woman."

Denies Confession.
Hoch denied making the confession which was used as evidence in his trial, but would not take the stand to disprove it. His last utterance to a visitor was in keeping with his hypocrisy towards the judge and the wife he robbed. He said, "Death is better than this confinement, but I have given my word of honor to jailer Whitman I would not leave, even if I found the doors open." Hoch claimed to be a great-grandson of Marshal Ney, who went to St. Helene with Napoleon, and the son of a prominent family in Strassburg. He said his father was a retired minister in Tulo, ignorant of the fate of his son. Two of Hoch's brothers are ministers. He said: "My great-grandfather, Marshal Ney, was one of the heroes of Napoleon's army and I, his descendant, shall die as a soldier. I believe I am going before my Maker and Jesus Christ, my savior. I believe in God and I believe I shall meet in the life beyond those who were near and dear to me here. How could I stand at the judgment seat with a lie on my soul?" On the next day, he denied having told this story.

Different Stories.
At different times Hoch claimed to have been born in Strassburg and Tulo, French cities that passed into possession of the Germans in 1871. Other information tends to prove Hoch's right name is Schmidt, and a wife, supposedly the first one, by whom Hoch is said to have had two children, now resides in Germany.

His Arrest.
Information that led to the arrest of Hoch was given the police by Mrs. Emma Fischer, his last wife. She married him January 18, 1905, a few days after the funeral of her sister, who had been her immediate predecessor as Mrs. Hoch. On December 30 of last year Hoch married Mrs. Marie Welker and took her to his house, 6420 Union Avenue, where she died on January 12, after a short illness, and when Hoch was alone with her. Preceding her death he obtained from the woman all her money, as he had done in his previous marriages.

Three days after her death he married Mrs. Fischer, and the day following the wedding he obtained from her $750 he used, he said, in paying a mortgage on the furniture and house at 6420 Union Avenue. A day or two later he disappeared.

A Long List.
The search for Hoch extended to New York where he was arrested. Suspecting he would seek concealment in Germany, his former home, the police kept watch on outward bound vessels.

A complete list of Hoch's "speculations" in matrimony would be difficult to compile. So far as can be learned, he was born in Germany 40 years ago, studied medicine, and in Vienna married Anna Hoch in 1881. Two years later he emigrated with her to America. Several years later she died.

His next wife (No. 2) he obtained in Chicago in May, 1892. Her name is not known, but it is known that he rented a flat under her name of C. A. Mayer. That wife died three weeks after the marriage.

The next month Hoch rented another flat at 481 Franklin street, in the name of H. Ivick. A month later his third wife (No. 3), name also unknown, died there, and Hoch, or "Ivick," disappeared.

In 1894 he lived for two months with another wife (No. 4) in a flat at 1008 Northwestern Avenue, when she died. In June of the same year he married Mrs. Julia Steinbrecher (No. 5), 23 West Belmont Avenue. Two months later she became ill and died leaving Hoch property valued at $4,000. Before her death she accused Hoch in the presence of a stepdaughter of poisoning her. Her funeral was stopped by the coroner, but was permitted to proceed when Hoch produced a burial certificate signed by Dr. Grimme.

After Mrs. Steinbrecher-Hoch's death Hoch married Mrs. Mary Rankin (No. 6). Mrs. Rankin was "too cute" for him, according to her story. After several unsuccessful efforts to get possession of her savings he left her. In the same year he married Miss Martha Herfeld (No. 7), gained possession of $1,800, and deserted her. Mrs. Herfeld-Hoch now lives in Pasadena, Cal.

In 1896 Hoch was arrested under the name of C. A. Calford and charged by Mrs. Janet Spencer (No. 8), 3607 Wabash Avenue, with having married and deserted her, after taking her money. He was acquitted, but a year later was arrested again under the name of DeWitt C. Cudney on complaint of Callie Charlotte Andrews (No. 9). The woman said she had met "Cudney" at the Wellington hotel, and was deserted two hours after the ceremony, he taking $500 of her money. The police then identified him as the abductor of little Hulda Stevens, and accused him of participating in a diamond robbery, but he escaped prosecution.

Was Arrested.
In 1896 Hoch appeared in Wheeling, W. Va., and married a woman (No. 10) under the name of Jacob Huss. This woman died suddenly three months afterwards, leaving "Huss" property worth $2,500. Immediately after the funeral Hoch left Wheeling. Early in 1897 he reappeared in Chicago with a woman supposed to be wife No. 11 and installed her in a flat at 1266 West Fourteenth place under the name of Martin Dotz. In June his wife died. Hoch was arrested and sent to the Bridewell for swindling Simon Strauss, a furniture dealer who furnished the flat. He went to Cincinnati and there married Clara Bartell, widow of a saloonkeeper. Mrs. Bartell-Hoch (No. 12) died within three months of supposed wuthritis. Hoch married Julia Doess (No. 13) in Hamilton, O., January, 1897. He soon departed with $600 obtained from Mrs. Doess-Hoch and $400 realized on Mrs. Bartell's effects.

Again Arrested.
On April 29, 1898, he was arrested in Chicago for having sold mortgaged furniture. He was sent to the house of correction for one year. He was released July 21, 1899, and immediately was rearrested on a similar charge and sent to the same institution for another year.

In 1899 Hoch changed the field of his operations to Milwaukee, and there married a sister (No. 14) of Mrs. J. H. Schwartzmann. She died three weeks later leaving him $1,200. The next year he married Mrs. Mary Schultz (No. 15) in Argos, Ind. Together they came to Chicago with Mrs. Schultz's 15-year-old daughter. Nothing has been heard of Mrs. Schultz-Hoch or her daughter since. Hoch made $2,000 out of this venture. Within a month Hoch proposed marriage to Mrs. Nathalie Peterson of Chicago. Mrs. Peterson had almost succumbed to the "fascinating man" when she was warned that Hoch "was not straight." Hoch at that time said under the name of Jacob Adolph.

In St. Louis.
In 1901 Hoch appeared in St. Louis under the name of Jacob Schultz and posing as a millionaire. He married Mrs. Mary Becker (No. 16) after a week's acquaintance. In a few months she died under circumstances that aroused the suspicions of the attending physician. In December of the same year Mrs. Elizabeth Goerk (No. 17), 102 Eugene street, "looked in" a boarder in answer to an advertisement in a German newspaper. The man called himself Jacob Schmidt, and after a few weeks' courtship she married him. He attempted to persuade her to turn her property over to him, but without success. He disappeared within a week. Mrs. Goerk declares Schmidt and Hoch are the same.

Hoch went to Milwaukee again in 1902, and in January married Mrs. T. O'Connor (No. 19), calling himself Edward Gerald James. He deserted her on Jan. 1, 1904, taking $200 of her savings.

Back in Chicago.
Hoch reappeared in Chicago in January of last year and married Mrs. Anna Hendrickson (No. 20). He secured $1,000 from her and deserted her. The following June in Milwaukee he married Mrs. Lena Hoch (No. 21), who died in three weeks, leaving him $1,500. In October he married Mrs. Caroline Schaefer (No. 22) in Philadelphia, deserted her a week later, taking her savings, amounting to $1,800.

Returning to Chicago last December, Hoch married Mrs. Marie Welker (No. 23). She died on January 11 last, leaving him $250. Her body was exhumed and examined by Coroner's Physician Lewke for trace of poison. The analysis discovered arsenic.

January 10, 1905, Hoch married Mrs. Emma Fischer (No. 24) the sister of Mrs. Welker-Hoch, and disappeared with $750 of her money. Mrs. Fischer's complaint first directed the attention of the police to Hoch's record.

The arch-bigamist was courting Mrs. August Praxmeyer in New York, January 21, when the woman saw his picture and an account of his crimes in a newspaper. She straightaway wrote a letter informing the Chicago police of Hoch's whereabouts. He was arrested and returned to Chicago for trial. Eight weeks ago he was convicted and sentenced, and died today.

MADE ADDRESS AT OPENING TODAY

REV. W. A. GOEBEL DELIVERED AN EXCELLENT DISCOURSE.

CHAUTAUQUA FORMALLY OPEN

As President of the Association the Catholic Divine Welcomed the Public.

In making his opening address of welcome to the general public at the Chautauqua this afternoon, Father Goebel, president of the Janesville Chautauqua Association, said:

It is with a feeling of pardonable pride that the city of Janesville extends to you, a most sincere and hearty welcome. Located on the banks of the beautiful Rock, occupying its enchanting valley and airy hillside, dotted with attractive homes, a populated by a still more attractive and most encouraging people, it bids you breathe its inspiring, elevating atmosphere and share its comfort and charms. It is of one mind and heart today, one and all, ministers, attorneys, doctors, merchants and mechanics, all citizens alike, divesting themselves of every prejudice, of religious indifference, political opinions, race or nationality, ambition or contention, it is united for a common good, and thus a united heart throbs with delight at the distinction conferred upon it by this great and most distinguished audience.

Commercially progressive, still it is not so permeated with rampant materialism, that it is oblivious to a loftier advancement. Janesville's ability to grasp the benefits that accrue from a financial proposition, is not more pronounced than its eagerness to reach out for educational opportunities. Mutual exchange of thought ever engenders, Janesville bids you all thrice welcome. May the inventives to dip deeper in the realm of various knowledges be paramount to the importance Janesville feels and assumes in entertaining you. The history of the Chautauqua contains no romantic or tragic element. It is in nuclei a modern story of the people. Here political color and class distinction offer no chance of preference. The Chautauqua holds for its creed the brotherhood of the human race and its higher destiny. It offers blessings alike to all. Irrespective of class, of the plebeian and aristocrat, the illiterate and learned, it is as replete with blessings to one as to the other. The Chautauqua will perforce give birth to and arouse stagnant enthusiasm, an enthusiasm for truer living and bring all classes and conditions of men in closer fellowship, and this fellowship is productive of mutual help, more honorable to ones self and his associates.

There was a time when education was an especial privilege of a chosen few, but with the increase of the world's resources and the progress of the present day it is the inestimable boon to which the humblest can aspire. Education is the divine prerogative of the human soul, and there is no aristocracy of brain, genius is unfettered by heredity, or custom in the choice of its abode. The lowly but is more apt to fill its divine presence than the stately palace. The gift of the created faculty whether in art, science or letters contains prerogatives and under every mental gift or material possession there is the dual obligation, the obligation to elicit and perfect for one's own sake, and for the still nobler aim of imparting benefits to others. The possession of knowledge simply for display is pederasty. Knowledge is the divine gift of man for his personal elevation and to increase his influence with his comrades for mutual enlightenment. Knowledge is power, and power carries with it responsibility. There may exist a wide diversity of talents and the ability to acquire, since conditions vary with each individual, but to neglect the cultivation of the mental gifts is high unto criminal. The obligations are of supreme weight. Self imposed ignorance is sinful to ones self, criminal to the family, and unjust to the state. Each blessing implies a corresponding obligation. The one is co-relative of the other.

Education ends only with life and that power of the human mind which resists knowledge is the one great factor in the ignorance of the world. Lowell has proclaimed "Man three-fifths genius and two-fifths sheer judgment." It is the eliciting and perfection of the genius and the elimination of the sheer judgment which is the desideratum. Lizards change color to shape themselves for the sake of safety to their surroundings. Not so with man. He should employ to his surroundings his latent resources. The surroundings may be crude, they may be anealed in a furnace of trials which welds a splendid janyophy for the battle of life, and like the historic Spartan youth he must return from the war with or upon his shield. The Chautauqua holds for its basic principle to be a school. There should be no suspension of intellectual activity. From the school room one enters a greater class, the university of life. The school and college life is but a feeble preparation for the course to be pursued thereafter. To suspend intellectual research, to cease mental effort is equivalent to the stagnation of higher faculties. This ceasing of mental employment has ever reflected seriously on the whole school and college system. The ultimate goal of many is no excuse for mental inactivity. To the zealous, alike to the mentally inert, the Chautauqua offers the spur to further efforts and the incentive to prosecute higher courses of study. Its mission therefore is of great importance. Those whose advantages in youth were limited, it inspires with a wholesome desire for knowledge and directs the further study of those who have completed their college course. It brings in closer union the family, the pulpit, the college and the factory. It pleads for a more universal culture. For all relations in life and for every natural bent of the mind it shows an opportunity. It demonstrates that each of these, the family, the pulpit, the college and the factory form an inseparable alliance for the correct education of the soul. The idea of the home is to teach love, and affection; the scope of the church is the exercise of reverence and conscience; the aim of the school is personal cultivation, and the factory industry and mutual assistance. No one is exempt from the influence of these forces which they leave their indelible impress upon all of whatsoever condition, age or learning.

The Chautauqua offers a loftier ideal of learning and presents a higher plane of attainment. It strives for the universal education of the masses. It lends through the labyrinth of the best thought of all time, it causes the multitude to be mutually helped and proves that the best work literary and intellectual is accomplished after the diploma is acquired, consequently it cements the bond between parent and child and a closer sympathy is here requisite and necessary that the parent can better direct the child in its lines of thought and educational advancement.

"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." As a natural sequence it follows then that the fundamental principle underlying education is religion. Religion is the recognition of a higher power and our duties to Him, as moral beings. It draws in a closer bond the whole human race and establishes a common brotherhood. It shows Him as the ideal perfection which all can strive to imitate. Consummate perfection we can never attain, we can only guide towards it.

Art, science, letters and the wonders of nature all belong to Him. The study of them reveals new possibilities to the illiterate, and to the learned their limitations. Thus we as finite beings can only form a meager conception of the infinite. The contemplation of the infinite causes beams of light to filter through the gray mist of lowliest life. The humblest cottage is transformed into the towered castle of winged aspiration and happiness.

In maturity beyond the influence of the college period, the mind is in the perichthon of re-capitulation. Schools may discipline and show the milestones on the road to knowledge but the vast number of problems of daily existence are best solved by experience. Aided by correct thought impartial knowledge stands supreme. It is the mature mind which is panned in the invincible armor of systematic reasoning. It is in the mature period of life that the intellect is most capable of reflection and production. A premature genius may by a single stroke pierce the dense cloud with a ray of bewildering light, but sustained effort is improvable.

All the influences which surround us have their value. There is a lesson in everything. Everything which surrounds has a meaning in the up-building of the fabric of our lives. Sorrow, pain and pleasure are but molecular forces to compose the drop character.

Underlying each there exists a lesson and in the application of the lesson, wisdom is begun. The training of thought, the development of the mind, the cultivation of the garden of the heart, alone each the solution of correct living. This is rendered possible only by the employment of our best energies and opportunities to their extreme possibilities. Wise direction in the conduct of study aided by incentives of lofty purpose is required. Nor is this less necessary in maturity than in youth. Such comes within the scope and is the aim of the Chautauqua. The Chautauqua movement is based upon the fundamental thought that a life is but a school, a school for the people, out of school, and that each day should be dedicated to educational purposes. The association is of equal service to the illiterate as well as the learned, to the scientist as well as the philosopher whether developing into Ymirs well of science, or skimming the empyran of knowledge. Again on behalf of the whole city I greet you and bid you a most hearty and cordial welcome.

New Officer on Duty: William Brigham is relieving Patrolman Thomas Morrissey on the east side tonight while the latter is enjoying his vacation. He will perform the duties for the other officers when they take their few days' rest. Mr. Brigham has been in the employ of the Northwestern railroad and recently passed the examinations, conducted by the fire and police commission, becoming eligible thereby to a permanent appointment should a vacancy occur. Officer Morrissey will spend his vacation in Janesville.

Annual Meeting: The annual meeting of the board of directors of the Hough Shade corporation was held yesterday and the year's work and plans for the coming year were discussed. Those present were P. J. Hohenadel, Jr., George E. King, R. M. Bostwick, Jr., A. C. Hough, C. H. Betts, New York, and Don Farnsworth, Chicago.

half head. At the first meeting of the board of directors of the Janesville Advancement Association held yesterday afternoon in A. M. Fisher's office the following officers were elected: President, George S. Parker; vice president, Thomas S. Nolan; secretary, I. F. Wortendyke; treasurer, F. L. Clemons. Plans of the work were talked over and it was decided to hold weekly meetings. A committee consisting of Parker, Wortendyke and Bliss was appointed on advertising and a committee for soliciting membership of A. M. Fisher, H. H. Bliss and I. F. Wortendyke. Every one who can become a member should not fail to do so as the association will benefit every class and condition of society in the city. Janesville as a hustling city will soon be heralded throughout the country.

Hold a Picnic: On Sunday afternoon the Mystic Workers of the World are to hold a basket picnic at Happy Hollow. All members of the order and their families are cordially invited.

One crop often pays for the land and improvements.

Western Canada is bound to become the greatest wheat producing country in the world.

A safe investment for the capitalist. A farm in Canada is a money-maker for any one.

Everyone who has ever been there knows that it is a good country.

Buy now and you can't help but make money.

No better soil on the face of the earth.

25 to 45 bushels of No. 1 hard wheat to the acre.

75 to 140 bushels of oats and other crops just as good.

Barley, speltz, flax, millet, rye, peas, potatoes, and root crops of all kinds do well.

Not a severe climate; stock feed out all winter.

No expensive barns needed.

Good water from 10 to 25 feet.

Plenty of good timber free to settlers.

A Great Opportunity
The opportunity that was in Illinois twenty years ago, in Iowa ten years ago, in Minnesota five years ago, is today in Eastern Assiniboia. Don't wait till the opportunity is past to tell what you might have done. Buy now.

The price of productive, cheap, well located lands has always gone in but one direction—up—and must, if history repeats itself, go up by leaps and bounds, that outstrip all other safe investments. Join the crowd and go up with us. Excursion every Tuesday. Call or write us. Both phones.

IT'S TO YOUR ADVANTAGE

to know, that in Janesville there is an association or combine of dentists, whose members are bound, upon their honor, to maintain certain prices for their work.

If you ask them to cut these prices, you ask them to perjure themselves and break their word with each other.

Dr. Richards stands out and has not joined this combine. See how this works: You who have patronized them know that you have paid them just $10 each for gold crowns, while Dr. Richards is placing hundreds of these crowns for just $5 each and guaranteeing them equal in all respects and in many cases superior to work he sees for which you have paid $10.

Whatever may be your reasons for throwing away your good money this way.

Ask yourself this question: Does it pay you?

Janesville Daily Gazette, Friday, July 28.—Hopeful.—The unmarried ladies will please take notice that according to the official census of Rock County, the number of males is considerably larger than that of females. You can therefore take your pick, ladies.

Rock County and the Soldiers' Home.—We have obtained the following figures which show in part, what the country has done toward the Soldiers' Home. Will the other towns not yet reported send in their donations at once:

Janesville (city)	$1,000
Bradford	121
Milton	70
Milton Aid Society	50
Janesville (town)	44
La Prairie and Turtle	33
Beloit	500
Total	$1,818

Coal.—We are now prepared to sell and deliver "the best prepared Anthracite Coal" for furnaces, ranges, grates or stoves, at definite rates by vessel, car or wagon load, and at prices that will not compel purchasers to "pay for the expense of attending to the work and delivering," even one dollar per ton more than "the most favorable wholesale prices," for a good quality of coal.

LAWRENCE & ATWOOD, Janesville, Wis., July, 1865.

Fatal Accident.—Editors Gazette. Deacon Jewett Boynton was found dead last Wednesday night near the town line on the road between Union and Rutland. It is supposed that on starting for home in the evening his horses became "unmanageable" and threw him out of the wagon, and that the fall broke his neck or the wheels passed over it, killing him almost instantly. He was a man highly respected by all who knew him. His death will be severely felt by his family and by the Baptist church at Union, of which he was a Deacon and a permanent, active member.

A Good Joke.—A good story is told of a Boston man who recently visited the city. Happening here on the evening of the first temperance meeting, he strolled into the Court Room where he thought he saw one of the gentlemen with whom he was taking a quiet drink just a few hours before, filling one of the offices. He said, (in relating the incident afterwards) he thought it was a queer country out here if the cause of temperance was represented by such men. But it might be that he was mistaken, men looking so differently by gas light sometimes, and perhaps the officer in question is another man entirely. "But," said he, "after the meeting, to make the thing sure, I again asked him to drink, and by thunder, he did drink!"

Leipzig Books and Music. In the city of Leipzig, the headquarters of the German book publishing trade, there are 2,816 firms filling orders, and its book publishers' exchange has 3,240 members. Leipzig has not only one of the most celebrated universities in Germany, but as a city is renowned for its music schools and concerts. Many Americans of both sexes are now studying at Leipzig.

Material for a Funeral.—We expect every day to be called upon to chronicle the death or wounding of some one of the many boys who hang around the cars continually. Notwithstanding all the efforts of the operators to keep them away, they insist on clambering upon the cars, and before a train is fairly stopped, it will be boarded by numbers of these boys ambitious to loose a limb or their life. Why will parents permit their children to frequent such dangerous places?

Why will parents permit their children to frequent such dangerous places?

Material for a Funeral.—We expect every day to be called upon to chronicle the death or wounding of some one of the many boys who hang around the cars continually. Notwithstanding all the efforts of the operators to keep them away, they insist on clambering upon the cars, and before a train is fairly stopped, it will be boarded by numbers of these boys ambitious to loose a limb or their life. Four regiments arrived at Madison quite unexpectedly the other day, and the waiters became thoroughly tired out. Gov. Lewis and Capt. MacFarlane, State Armorer, desiring that the soldiers be well received, told into the ranks and helped wait upon tables. One of the boys in blue, seeing the Governor hard at work, called out, "Look here old fellow, hurry up some of that roast beef." A comrade sitting by him, knew the Governor, and said: "Hold on, John, don't you know who that is—it is the Governor." "Well," said John, "I don't care,—he's a bully good waiter, anyhow."

The Governor has been indefatigable in looking after the comfort of the returning soldiers.

Fair tonight. Saturday; fresh south to west winds.

Have you always accomplished, on the morrow, all of the things you have "put off" doing until then? If you have, you are now a very rich and a very happy man. If you have not,
you ought to be a wiser man—
and stop fooling yourself. How many times have you deferred until another time the adequate advertising of your business?
Did the time ever come?

"WHO STEALS MY PURSE."

Occasionally there crops up a case of blackmail or extortion demonstrating the fact that men will pay money in large sums rather than face exposure of some act of a discreditable character committed by them
at some time or other in the past, says the Wall Street Journal. As often as not the act is one which entails no legal penalty, no loss of property—nothing save loss of standing or reputation in the eye of the public. And to avoid this men will suffer themselves to be bled by the first scabrous "society" sheet that comes along. Nay more, men will even pay money to avoid "exposure"
of something that they have never done—knowing that the lie once started will ever more show a clean pair of heels to the truth. And thus it is that in all communities such as New York there flourishes a generation of expert blackmailers most of whom go in perfect peace so far as the police are concerned, because their victims will not testify. A few moments' chat with any detective
who has spent some time in the Wall street district, will develop facts that are, if you will, incredible, impossible, inconceivable—but true. Once every few years some worm will turn. For a little while the air is thick with remarkable "revelations," but they are soon forgotten and the game goes on again with undiminished vigor. What is the moral of it?

There are several morals—several minor morals and one major moral.
We need not concern ourselves only with the latter, and it is that apparently the only law that men at all times honestly strive to keep is the eleventh commandment, "Thou shalt not be found out."

Moral theologians rank among a man's goods of which he may not be deprived his good name, his bona fama, and in this property right in his good name is the origin of the law of libel. The law of libel as it runs in England is good morals, for it includes the axiom, "The greater the truth the greater the libel." As it runs here in New York state it is not good morals, for while it covers the injustice of calumny, it does not cover that of detraction, and the latter is fully as bad as the former. The instinct of man, therefore, to protect his good name is sound enough—
indeed, it is more than an instinct;
it is a dictate of reason. Hence the fear of exposure, the dread of being found out. Hence the opportunity for tyranny by the newspapers. Hence the chance for the blackmailer with any kind of a sheet at his back.
Hence the existence of sheets which serve no purpose other than that of pandering to the meanest impulses
of the crowd deriving their profit from the fears of the few. And hence the irresistible force of just public opinion.

M. WITTE'S STATEMENT.

In view of the fact that M. Witte is probably the most enlightened statesman in Russia today, and has been appointed as the chief Russian peace plenipotentiary, his statement given to the Associated Press is of large interest. Briefly, Mr. Witte admits that he is in favor of peace;
that he desired peace even before the war was entered upon, and desires
it now still more ardently; and that,
moreover, the Emperor is desirous of peace. But he declares distinctly that neither he nor the Emperor, nor Russia is in favor of peace at any price. There are indeed two parties in Russia—one which is anxious for a continuance of the war and the other desirous of its honorable conclusion; but the latter, fully as much as the former, would reject any Japanese proposals that would wound
the honor or jeopardize the future of Russia. He states in addition that Russia is not crushed, and that while the internal dissensions are serious,
yet the country is not on the verge of dissolution, but has a great future
before it.

Now, it is not unlikely that this statement was issued for effect on the coming peace conference for the purpose of notifying Japan in advance that the terms which Japan shall propose must be moderate and fair.

But whatever the motive of M.
Witte's interview, it bears the marks
of being a true statement of facts.
It seems to come nearer the representing the actual conditions in Russia than any other statement which has been made. It clears up many of the misconceptions and puts the situation in a definite shape.

THE POLITICAL CONTRIBUTIONS.

When the legislature last winter ordered an investigation of the gas companies in New York city, there was naturally a strong suspicion that the investigation would be largely a whitewash affair. The public was happily disappointed. The investigation proved to be far more thorough than any one dreamed that a legislative inquiry would ever dare to be.
It really developed some rock bottom facts in regard to the gas business.

Now that the legislature has ordered an investigation of the insurance companies there is the same suspicion that it will lack the courage to make a thorough inquiry. But as there was a strong public opinion which forced a drastic investigation of the gas companies, so there is a strong public opinion back of this investigation of the insurance companies, and it is not unlikely that the inquiry to be made will prove far more comprehensive than would have appeared to be possible.

But will the committee have the courage to apply its probe deep into the bowels of the political graft
connected with the life insurance companies? Will it in addition to exposing whatever abuses and evils that may have developed in the life insurance companies as a whole, also open to the light of day the facts
in regard to the use of life insurance funds for political purposes? Even the investigations which have been made of the Equitable failed to develop these facts, although it touched closely upon them.

The public has a right to know what sums our life insurance companies have paid to political parties and political leaders and the reasons why these payments were made.

By the way, who paid the $685,000
loan of the Mercantile Trust to Equitable officers? Who received the proceeds of that loan?

SAVING TIME.

The "black art of saving time," is the phrase used somewhere by Howells in describing the American habit of sacrificing safety to speed in travelling.

The awful disaster of the New York Central's 15-hour Chicago flier, followed now by the accident to the Pennsylvania's 18-hour Chicago train, raises the question whether there is any real business necessity for trying to save an hour or two off the time between New York and Chicago
by the running of trains too near their speed limit.

COMPLETELY RESIGNED.

If Senator Chauncey M. Depew is not fit to be director of the Equitable Life, if he is not fit to be chairman of the board of directors of the New York Central, the question naturally arises whether he is fit to be a director of the United States. In this connection it is well to recall the fact that Mr. Depew's re-election as United States Senator, for the term ending in 1911, is believed to have been due to the influence of his recent fellow director in the Equitable,
Mr. E. H. Harriman, who seems to possess a strange power over ex-Gov.
Ogilvie, chairman of the Republican committee in this state. It is about time that Mr. Depew became, completely resigned to the inevitable.

Some day there will be some law suits against the city for broken limbs because of defective walks. A little economy now is better than paying damages later.

There are times when a man is allowed to lie and that is when he tells of the big fish he lost or why he was out late the night before when his mother-in-law appears at the breakfast table.

Milwaukee tries to gobble all the conventions on the top of the globe, and Chicago feels sore and wants a few itself.

Madison plans new asphalt pavements but what it needs more than anything else is one good first-class hotel.

John Paul Jones and his bone-

used to being on American soil once more.

Milwaukee is disappointed that Janesville did not turn out and visit them with the Nonesuch Bros. circus.

before he begins his autumn hunting.

ington.

The stock of worthless cures in Janesville is not on the decrease by any means.

PRESS COMMENT.

Sheboygan Journal: A young English girl, is lost somewhere in Wisconsin. The police ought to trace here by the H's she drops.

Marquette Eagle-Star: For safety
the American navy should keep constantly at war. There are too many fatalities during peaceful times.

Chicago News: Some men if they had done half as much as Milwaukee's state's attorney would have the right to play on them continuously
from four different directions.

Evening Wisconsin: At $2 a day
the job of holding down a chair in an election booth won't be the "soft snap" it was of yore, but there won't be many refusals by political patriots.

Superior Telegram: The reform spirit seems to be everywhere. A Philadelphia policeman shot a politician the other day.

Wausau Central Wisconsin: An exchange says that Governor La Follette has earned a rest. Why doesn't he take it then, instead of traveling
all over the country giving lectures at $100 per?

Milwaukee News: With civil service reform in force at Madison, Wis.,
the fellows that proved their merit
in carrying caucuses and wrangling circulars may feel that the sacrifices made in the fight for the people were not in vain.

Exchange: Minnesota paid $29,000
for wolf scalps last year, and Wisconsin is to pay for similar peltry. This will enable men who would rather hunt than work to recover something more than the value of their ammunition.

Racine Times: Jas. J. McCarthy calls "by the skin of his teeth" a "vulgar expression" and apologizes for using it. But the expression was not too vulgar for the author of the book of Job, where it appears in the nineteenth chapter, twentieth verse.

Oshkosh Northwestern: From the manor in which some of the otherthird-class cities of the state are holding back their figures for the state census, one might imagine they had hopes of being able to swell the same
at the last moment in order to beat some rival.

St. Paul Dispatch: Whether it be heedlessness or malice that dashes kerosene on your lawn, the effect is just the same, the grass is killed
beyond resurrection.

Manitowoc Herald: Somebody has figured it out that the beer that is consumed throughout the whole world in the course of a year would make a lake a mile wide, three and three quarters of a mile long and six feet deep in every part.

Neenah Times: Never in the history of Neenah has there been such avalanches of Green Bay files as at the present time. At the Bernstein elevator on Saturday morning piled up on the sidewalk and against the wall they were six inches in depth and on Sunday morning four inches.
Such a visitation from these insects
this season beats the record of all past years.

Kansas City Times: It cost John D. Rockefeller just $1,000,000 to call the bluff of President Hadley of Yale university about social ostracism as a cure for the unlawful acquisition of money. But the result was worth every farthing of that amount to the Standard Oil company, although its cost to Yale can never be computed in anything of so little intrinsic value
as dollars and cents.

into the alleged beef trust was begun
early in 1903, and now Attorney General Moody says that the indications are that the indicted men will be judged by 1906. He declares that no pressure was brought to bear upon the grand jury in Chicago to secure the indictments. The attorney general in his speech Saturday said that the government has been unjustly charged with negligence in the proceedings against the alleged combine, and asserted that the indicted men must be considered innocent until they have been proven guilty.

Salt Lake Tribune: The United States is by far the largest of all the civilized nations except Russia,
which has about 130,000,000 inhabitants. The German empire has 56, 000,000, Austria-Hungary 47,000,000,
Japan 47,000,000, the United Kingdom
42,000,000, France 38,000,000, Italy 32,
000,000 and Spain 18,000,000. China has 350,000,000, but she does not count in the calculation of this sort.
Owing to the rapid growth of the United States the English language is now spoken by more persons than any other civilized tongue. Charles V. said he spoke German to his horse, French to men, Italian to his

New York Evening Post: It is charged against District Attorney Mc-Govern of Milwaukee that he is protecting the grafters in that city with the idea of making himself the "Polk of Wisconsin" and the political heir of Gov. La Follette. Prosecuting Attorney Rhoton of Little Rock, whose prosecution of the indicted Arkansas
grifters has failed in the only case
thus far brought to trial, is accused of wanting to be "Polk of Arkansas." To "Polk" is a verb-form that seems likely to be written into our political dictionary, with the effect of cheapening the imitator's work. Polk himself has been called ambitious

by the "Bill" Stokes of his own party
in Missouri, and a "grandstand prosecutor" by his political opponents.
The imitation Polks—the folks for "what there is in it"—are likely to injure the cause of reform. It would be to our political advantage, we are convinced, if every real reformer's
name and methods could be copyrighted. Ambitious district attorneys would then be compelled to work along original lines.

Milwaukee News: If Walter Wellman, the diligent and alert purveyor of the president's intentions, is to be credited, there are momentous changes pending at Washington.
President Roosevelt has tired of Henry Cabot Lodge, the "scholar in politics" and is weary of Shaw, the Iowa financier. Lodge no longer will be given access to the presidential ear and Shaw is to be sent back to the cornfield. Loomis is to go and young Garfield has lost his chance to become a member of the cabinet. Lodge is down as the president's favorite and Root is up, with Taft a close second.
When Lodge voted against the arbitration treaties, he showed that he was no friend of Roosevelt. Mr. Wellman faithfully reports. It was then that the real character of the man was revealed to the trusting executive. Once he thought that Lodge was high-minded, pure of purpose and free from the taint of spoils politics. Instead, the president has found that Lodge is a "boss" and a professional politician devoted to office getting and things that are sordid and ignoble. "Lodge has been so close to Roosevelt throughout all the years," Wellman says, "that no one has imagined the tie could be broken."

The Onion Beautiful. A campaign against that odorous odile, esteemed everywhere for its strong savor of virtues—the onion—is being waged at Portsmouth, Ohio. To trace the origin of the crusade: A lecturer
before the alliance of women's clubs said that the onion had no value as a food, that it had no taste, appealing only to the sense of smell. The friends of the down-trodden vegetable had the spirit to defend it. They made trouble in the town. The ensuing debate estranged friends and stopped one marriage. Finally in the effort to settle the dispute the alliance passed resolutions classing the onion with "the noxious herbs of the ivy family." The concluding paragraphs read as follows: "Whereas,
the Apostle Paul, in his letter to the Romans, doubtless referred to the eating of onions when he said, 'If any man defile the temple of God
him shall God destroy, for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are'; therefore, 'let all sensible and clean people cease the onion habit';
there now. There is no compromise with the unclean sniffing, no ameliorative suggestion that the acrid volatile oil of the onion may be released by boiling. No, not even in hash!
However, the onion needs no defense.
It is strong enough to speak for itself. Consider its history. Think of the criticism of the final and the pungent flavor of its bouquet
through the long ages since it found its early home in Asia. Bulb and leaf, it has always been in evidence and has followed man in all his windowings. Its scent has put tang to every breeze. Remember how the children of Israel got tired of manna

and longer for the leeks and onions of Egypt? There is no doubt that as soon as they got settled in the Promised Land they sent back and got some onion seeds. The mouths of those Portsmouth women shall yet water! And for us who love the fragrant fruit—Long may its perfume grace our nostrils. 'Aye, even to the point of tears.

BEET SUGAR CROP IS PROGRESSING WELL

Letter of Advice from Lafayette
Myers on the Existing Conditions.

(By La Fayette Myers.)

In the past two weeks sugar beets have made excellent progress in growth. The weather has been very favorable and a great deal of work has been done in the fields. This is the time of year when the majority of the beets start to make their root growth. Up to this time the growth is principally in the leaves but from now on the roots will begin to develop and in two or three months be ready to harvest. There are in the vicinity of Janesville alone 2,000 acres of sugar beets under cultivation, 55 per cent of which were planted on good soil and are well carried for and reports from the surrounding towns and territory are also very encouraging. Certainly the time is coming when sugar beets will not be classed as a minor crop in this part of Wisconsin.

The necessary work in the fields
should be finished within the next week. In fields where the leaves do not quite cover the rows the last cultivation should be given, the grass hoed out perfectly clean and everything made as favorable as possible for the beets to develop. In a number of the early fields the big weeds
are starting and if they are not removed at once the results in tonnage and sugar per cent will be greatly lessened as it takes as much nourishment to grow a large pig weed as it does to develop a beet, while the root growth is now just making good headway. Indications are that the best crop is going to be one of the best if not the best paying crop of all this season and a little extra work in getting the fields free and clear of weeds and grass can well be afforded.

WILL FEEL THE LAW
REACHING FOR THEM

Anti-Pass Law Affects Firemen, Policemen and Sheriff's Of-cers Also.

According to the interpretation of the new anti-pass law Superintendent
Murphy, of the city street car lines, will issue an order to the effect that all firemen, policemen, sheriffs, officers or any city or county official who has been in the habit of riding free on the street cars in the past, must pay his fare or walk. Mr. Murphy said this morning: "After August first no firemen, policemen or sheriff's officers, in fact no public official, can ride on the Janesville street railway free. I am taking all the risks
if I allow them to continue and I intend to follow the law and see that they do not ride free. The law says that no public officer shall ride and I mean to live up to it." This order will be a source of much annoyance to the firemen and police who have been in the habit of using the cars to go to and from their homes to work.

CHAUTAUQUA NOW
OFFICIALLY OPENMRS. LOGAN GIVES EXCELLENT
ADDRESS THIS AFTERNOON.

SEVERAL HUNDRED PRESENT

Grand Army of the Republic in Attendance—Band Concert—Interesting Sight.

In the presence of fifteen hundred people, the opening exercises of the Janesville Chautauqua were held this afternoon. Despite the glowing clouds the visitors came on foot, in carriages, on the street cars and by steam boat. Long before two o'clock when Rev. W. A. Goebel gave his opening address, the grounds were well filled. The Imperial band gave a good concert, the old soldiers with their drum corps and flag and badges, the Ferguson Dixie Jubilee singers all added to the scene. The white canvas of the tents, the large lecture tent, the bureau of information, the grey colors of the dresses against the green background made a pretty picture when viewed from the roadway or river.

Good Address.
Rev. W. A. Goebel made an excellent address of welcome to the audience as president of the association. H. C. Buell made a fitting reply which was well received by the audience. The Dixie Jubilee singers then gave a very fine concert singing war songs and among them "Hail to the Chief," a favorite song of Mrs. Logan. Mrs. Logan's lecture on the four great generals of the civil war "Grant, Sherman, Sheridan and Logan" was most excellent. A view from the platform showed that this talented lady held the attention of her audience in a manner to be envied.

The Reception.
Immediately following her address Mrs. Logan was tendered a reception at which she shook the hands of several hundred persons. Many of the old soldiers present had come from a distance to hear the wife of their old commander and shake her hand. Mrs. Logan met with a pleasing grace and they felt comforted. It was a triumph for the old soldiers and sailors. The W. H. Sargent Post had marched part of the way to the grounds headed by the Imperial band, their drum corps and flags. All wore white gloves which added to their appearance greatly.

This Evening.
This evening there will be a band concert at seven o'clock followed by a concert by the Jubilee singers and then comes Dr. Roland Dwight Grant's lecture on "Snakes in Paradise."

disc." The grounds will be lighted by several hundred electric lights and the effect of the whole will be most pleasing. Many of the tents are already occupied by campers and it is expected before the session ends they will all be filled. There is an information bureau, a check room and the Gazette has a tent where the afternoon issues of the paper can be obtained. Where subscriptions will be received and general information given out. The Gazette will have a man on the grounds all the time and will publish a full account of the happenings each day.

Tomorrow's programme.
10:00—Lecture, "Chaos and Clouds," Dr. Roland Dwight Grant.
11:15—Round Table, "Friend and Foe," Dr. Roland Dwight Grant.
2:00—Concert by Ferguson's Dixie Jubilee Concert Co.
2:30—The Morphet and Stevenson Novelty Co., and Saxophone Quartette.
4:15—Concert by Ferguson's Dixie Jubilee Concert Co.
8:00—Concert by Ferguson's Dixie Jubilee Concert Co.
Soloist, Mrs. Buckner.

Mrs. Logan came to the grounds this afternoon accompanied by Col. and Mrs. Kimberley. Col. Kimberley served under General Logan during the civil war and made the speech which presented Mrs. Logan to the audience.

Dr. Roland Dwight Grant presided at the session this afternoon. Each morning Dr. Grant will hold a Round Table at eleven thirty.

Refreshment stands did a thriving business this afternoon.

A good sized eating tent where substantial meals can be found has been erected.

A nickel telephone has been installed and can be found in the bureau of information.

The Gazette headquarters are next to the Bureau of Information.

Take the steamer Columbia to and from the Chautauqua grounds from Fourth Ave. bridge. Fare 5c.

FUTURE EVENTS.

Janesville Chautauqua Assembly opens Friday afternoon, July 28. Mrs. John A. Logan lectures on "Four Great Generals of the Civil War," at 2:45 p. m. Lecture at 8:15 this evening on "Snakes in Paradise," by Dr. Roland Dwight Grant.

NUMBER HEARD MRS. LOGAN

Gathering at the High School Was
One of the Most Successful
Ever in Held Wisconsin.

At the Chautauqua grounds this afternoon came to a close what has probably been the largest and most successful County Teachers' Institute ever held in Wisconsin. This morning's session was called much earlier than usual, at eight o'clock and the usual afternoon and morning classes all held before the noon hour, when the regular work was completed. This was done in order that the large number from out of the city might hear one of the best features of the Janesville Chautauqua program—the lecture of Mrs. John A. Logan.

As Historical Instruction.
Those in charge of the institute recognized the historical benefit that might be reaped from hearing "The Four Great Generals of the Civil War—Grant, Sherman, Sheridan and Logan," and arranged that the teachers be extended the opportunity of hearing Mrs. Logan without missing any of the class work. The teachers attended in a body, nearly the entire number being present.

Institute Very Successful.
The total attendance of one hundred and sixty-seven young people, mostly women, is unprecedented, far exceeding the number enrolled at any previous Rock county Institute which has always been one of the

CURRENT NEWS NOTES.

Attention American Lodge No. 26. All Rebekahs are requested to be present at East Side Odd Fellows hall at 1:30 p. m. Saturday to attend in a body the funeral of our late sister, Mrs. Nellie M. Blakeley.

N. G. NELLIE SHERMAN.
Went to Hear Bryan: George Sutherland, P. J. Mount, Edward Schmidt, John Decker and Alderman Edward Connell left on the noon train for Madison where they will hear William J. Bryan speak at the Monona Lake assembly grounds this afternoon. They will also attend the banquet in his honor tonight. Edgerton and some of the other towns nearer the capital city sent big delegations this morning.

Just Two Drunks: Charles Tenson paid a fine of $2 and costs for drunkenness in municipal court this morning. Sentence was suspended for W. H. Walker on condition that he should leave the city forthwith.

Had the Crank: Charles Bendley of Edgerton, accompanied by Messrs. Henry Johnson and Erickson, arrived in Janesville in an automobile last evening. Their local friends urged them to tarry over night and when they would not listen to their pleadings, had the crank which is used to start the puff-wagon. The forced hospitality of the Bower City rather pleased the party in the end and they were still in the city at noon.

Woman's Label League: The regular meeting of the Woman's Union Label League will be held this evening at seven thirty in their new hall on the Corn Exchange.

Attends State Meeting.
Mr. Joseph H. Scholler, optician with Hall & Sayles, left yesterday for Milwaukee to attend the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Optical Society, of which he is a member.

The American Association of Opticians has just closed its eighth annual meeting in Minneapolis, many members of which will be in Milwaukee this week.

Mr. P. Scholler, of Hancock, Mich., who is considered one of the most practical and best opticians in this state, read one of the most instructive papers presented at this meeting.

Mr. Joseph Scholler of this city had his first experience in fitting the eye 12 years ago, under his brother's instructions and while taking his different courses in Optics, has kept in close touch with his brother, virtually being constantly under his tutelage.

The Jobbing Business.
During twenty-seven years on South First street William H. Grove by his skill and ingenuity, fair and honest dealing and courteous treatment has ever inspired respect and work and repairing to the satisfaction of his many patrons. Much of his work comes from outside of Janesville but he has a good following in the city which the fact that he was alderman of the First ward proves.

CIGAR TALKS.

How Can Smith Drug Co. Sell as Good a Cigar as the Chico for 5c.

"You want me to talk about cigars?" said Mr. Smith of Smith Drug Co. to a Gazette reporter.

"I think the better way is to let our cigars talk for themselves," he continued. "There is one cigar in our case, the 'Wadsworth Bros.' Chico, which is doing a lot of talking, even shouting. I consider myself fortunate in getting the agency for it, as it is really equal to any 10c cigar, and it costs only 5c."

"You see we buy it direct from the maker, and the middleman does not get any profit. At any rate, it is becoming the best seller in our case, and people who heretofore would have nothing but a 10c or even 15c cigar, ask for a Chico and say they like it. Better try one yourself and see how good it is."

CHAPTER III.

THERE was more of hurry than of kingly dignity in the entrance of Charles. The handsome face was marked by an imperious querulousness that for the moment detracted from its acknowledged nobility.

"Strafford," he cried impatiently, "I have been kept waiting. Servants are at this moment searching palace and park for you. Where have you been?"

"I was in the forest, your majesty. I am deeply grieved to learn that you needed me."

"I never needed you more than now. Are you ready to travel?"

Strafford's gloomy face almost lighted up.

"On the instant, your majesty," he replied, with a sigh of relief.

"That is well. I trust your majesty is relieved, in some measure at least. Still, I know that sickness has never been a bar to duty with you. Yet I ask no man to do what I am not willing to do myself for the good of the state, and I shall be shortly on the road at your heels."

"Whither, your majesty?" asked the earl, with falling countenance, for it was to Ireland he desired to journey, and he knew the king had no intention of moving toward the west.

"To London, of course; a short stop over bad roads. But if you are ailing and fear the highway, a barge on the river is at your disposal."

"To London?" echoed the earl, something almost akin to dismay in his tone. "I had hoped your majesty would order me to Ireland, which, I assure your majesty, has been somewhat neglected of late."

"Yes, yes," exclaimed the king brusquely. "I know your anxiety in that quarter. A man ever thinks that task the most important with which he is continually dealt, but my position gives me a view over the whole realm, and the various matters of state assume their just proportions in my eyes, their due relations to each other. Ireland is well enough, but it is the heart and not the limbs of the empire that requires the physician's cure. Parliament has opened badly and is like to give trouble unless treated with a firm hand."

The hand of the earl appeared anything but firm. It wavered as it sought the support of the chair's arm.

"Have I your majesty's permission to be seated? I am not well," Strafford said faintly.

"Surely, surely!" cried the king, himself taking a chair. "I am deeply grieved to see you so unwell, but a journey to London is a small matter compared with a match upon Dublin, which is like to have killed you in your present condition."

"Indeed, your majesty, the smaller journey may well have the more fatal termination," murmured the earl, but the king paid no attention to the remark, for his wandering eye now caught sight of a third in the conference, which brought surprised displeasure to his brow. The girl was standing behind the high back of the chair in which she had been seated, in a gloomy angle where the daylight which played so plainly on the king and Strafford did not touch her.

"Whom have we here? The flippant prophet of the forest, or my eyes deceive me? How comes this girl in my palace, so intimate with my Lord Strafford, who seemed to meet her as a stranger but yesterday?"

The slumbering suspicion of Charles was aroused, and he glanced from one to the other in haughty questioning.

"I never met her until I encountered her in the forest when I had the honor to accompany your majesty. Today, as I walked with De Courcy and others, there came a second accosting from her, as unexpected as the first. The girl craved private speech with me, which I somewhat reluctantly granted. The upshot is she brings me proof, which I cannot deny, that she is my eldest daughter."

"Your eldest daughter?" cried the king, amazed. "Is your family, then, so widely scattered and so far unknown to you that such a claimant may spring up at any moment?"

"I was married privately to the daughter of Sir John Warburton. Circumstances separated me from my wife, and, although her father curtly informed me of her death, he said nothing of issue. There was a feud between us—entirely on his part. I had naught against him. It seems he has been dead this year past, and my daughter, getting news of her father among Sir John's papers, comes thus southward to make inquiry."

"You fall into good fortune, my girl. Your extraordinary claim is most readily allowed."

Frances, finding nothing to say, kept silence and bowed her head to the king, whom she had regarded throughout with rapid attention.

"Where got you your gift of prophecy? Is prescience hereditary, and has your father's mantle already fallen on your shoulders? He is my best friend, you said, and I my worst enemy. Madam, you did not lack for boldness, but the force of the flattery of your father is lessened by my knowledge of your relationship, hitherto concealed from me."

"Your majesty, it has hitherto been concealed from myself," said the earl wearily.

"Has the girl no tongue? It wagged freely enough in the forest. Come, misquander, what have you to say for yourself?"

"Your majesty, I humbly crave your pardon. The words I used yesterday were not mine, but those of a gypsy in the north, who told me I was the daughter of the Earl of Strafford at a time when such a tale seemed so absurd that I laughed at her for connecting my name of Wentworth with one so exalted as the Earl of Strafford. Later, when I received proof that such indeed was the case, her words returned to me. I had no right to use them in your august presence, but the courage of the Lord Strafford prevented my meeting him. Thus, I sought to intercept him in the forest and was willing to use any strategy that might turn his attention toward me in the hope of getting a private word with him."

"I knew you had a tongue. Well, it matters little what you said. Your mission seems to have been successful. Do not think I placed any weight upon your words, be they gypsy spoken or the outcome of a spirit of mischief. My Lord Strafford, you will to London then?"

"Instantly, your majesty."

"I will consult with you there tomorrow. And have no fear, for on my oath as a man, on my honor as a king, I will protect you."

The king rose and left the room as abruptly as he had entered it.

For some moments Strafford lay back in his chair, seemingly in a state of collapse. The girl looked on him in alarm.

"Sir, is there anything I can do for you?" she asked at length.

"Call a servant. Tell him to order a coach prepared at once and see that it is well horsed, for I would have the journey as short as possible."

"My lord, you are in no condition of health to travel to London. I will go to the king and tell him so."

"Do that I requested you and trouble me not with counsel. There is enough of woman's meddling in this business already."

Frances obeyed her father's instructions without further comment, then came and sat in her place again. The earl roused himself, endeavoring to shake off his languor.

"What think you of the king?" he asked.

"He is a man corroded with selfishness."

"Tut, tut! Such things are not to be spoken in the precincts of a court. No, no thought. He is not a selfish monarch, other than all monarchs are selfish, but discussion on such a theme is fruitless, and I must be nearing my bedtime to begin it. I am far from well, Frances, and so, like the infirm, must take to babbling."

"Do you fear parliament, my lord? How can it harm you when you have the favor of the king?"

"I fear nothing, my girl, except foolish, unseen interference, interference that may not be struck at or even hinted against. Did they teach you the history of France in your school?"

"No, my lord."

"Then study it as you grow older. I'll warrant you'll find it interesting enough. Ruined by women. Ruined by women. Seven civil wars in seventeen years, and all because of viperish, brainless women. Well, we have one of the breed here in England, and God help us!"

"You mean the queen, my lord?"

"Hush! Curses on it, will you be as outspoken as another of your sex is spiteful and subtle? Mend your manners, hussy, and guard your tongue. Could you not see you spoke too freely to the king, a moment since?"

"Sir, I am sorry."

"Be not sorry, but cautious."

Strafford fell into a reverie, and there was silence in the room until the servant entered and announced that the coach was ready, whereupon his master rose unsteadily.

"Sir," said the girl, "will you not eat or drink before you depart?"

"No." Then, looking sharply at his daughter, he inquired, "Are you hungry?"

"Yes, my lord."

"Bring hither some refreshments, whatever is most ready at hand, and a measure of hot spiced wine. I had forgotten your youth, Frances, thinking all the world was old with me."

When the refreshment came she ate but sparingly despite her proclamation, but coaxed him to partake and to drink a cup of wine. He ordered a woman's cloak brought for her, which when she had thrown it over her shoulders he himself fastened at her throat.

"There," he said when the cloak enveloped her, "that will protect you somewhat, for the night grows cold."

Strafford himself was wrapped in warm furs, and thus together they went down the stairs to the court, now dimly lighted. A cavalier who seemed to have been standing in wait for them stepped out from the shadow of the arches, and Frances recognized the French spark whom she had so frankly characterized earlier in the day.

"My lord," protested De Courcy jauntily, "you have your comrades at a disadvantage. You have captured the woodland nymph and I hear, propose spitting her away to London. I do protest 'tis most unkind to those who are thus left behind."

"Sir," said Strafford, with severity, pausing in his walk, "I would have you know that the lady to whom you refer is the Lady Frances Wentworth, my eldest daughter, ever to be spoken of with respect by high and low. Native and foreign shall speak otherwise at their distinct peril."

Their arrival at the carriage, with its four impatient horses postilion ridden, saved Strafford the effort of reply had he intended such. He seated himself in the closed vehicle, and his daughter sprang nimbly in beside him, ignoring the proffered aid of De Courcy, who stood bowing and bending with much courtesy and did not resume his bonnet until the coach lurched on its lumbering way, preceded and followed by a guard of horsemen, for the Earl of Strafford always traveled in state.

Nothing was said by either until the jangling procession was well clear of the park, when the girl, with a shudder, exclaimed:

"I loathe that scented fop!" Then, seeming to fear a reproach for her outspoken remark, added, "I know I should not say that, but I cannot see what you have in common with such a creature that you are civil to him."

To her amazement her father laughed slightly, the first time she had heard him do so.

"When we travel, Frances, safe out of earshot, you may loathe whom you please; but, as I have warned you, 'tis sometimes unsafe to give expression to your feelings within four walls. I may find little in common with any man, least of all with such as De Courcy, whom I take to be as false as he is fair, but there is slight use in irritating a wisp when you cannot crush. Wait till he is under my hand, then I shall crush ruthlessly; but the time is not yet. He has the ear of the queen, and she has the ear of her husband."

"Sir, what reason have you to suspect that the queen moves against you?"

"One reason is that I am this moment journeying east when I would be traveling west. In truth, my girl, you seem resolved unconsciously to show you are your father's daughter with that uncured tongue of yours, for a lack of lying is like to be my undoing. If I had told the king I must to London, 'tis most like we were now on our way to Dublin."

"But it may be the king himself who thus greets you contrariwise."

Earliest English Cemetery.
The earliest English cemetery, as distinct from churchyards and burial grounds connected with places of worship, is that at Kensal Green, which was consecrated in 1832, long after the first separate grounds in America. The word means "sleeping place."

Nervous Women
Their Sufferings Are Usually Due to Uterine Disorders Perhaps Unsuspected

A MEDICINE THAT CURES

Can we dispute the well-known fact that American women are nervous?

How often do we hear the expression, "I am so nervous, it seems as if I should fly."

"Don't speak to me." Little things annoy you and make you irritable; you can't sleep, you are unable to quietly and calmly perform your daily tasks or care for your children.

The relation of the nerves and generative organs in women is so close that nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous debility, the blues, sleeplessness and nervous irritability arise from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman.

Fits of depression or restlessness and irritability. Spirits easily affected, so that one minute she laughs, the next minute weeps. Pain in the ovaries and between the shoulders. Loss of voice, nervous dyspepsia. A tendency to cry at the least provocation. All this points to nervous prostration.

Nothing will relieve this distressing condition and prevent months of prostration and suffering so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. M. E. Shotwell, of 103 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I cannot express the wonderful relief I have experienced by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered for a long time with nervous prostration, backache, headache, loss of appetite, could not sleep and would walk the floor almost every night."

"I had three doctors and got no better, and life was a burden. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has worked wonders for me."

"I am a well woman, my nervousness is all gone and my friends say I look ten years younger."

Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all women of its virtues? Surely you cannot wish to remain sick and weak and discouraged, exhausted each day, when you can be as easily cured as other women.

Write for the full particulars of this wonderful medicine to Lydia E. Pinkham, Med. Dept., 222 Central Building, Lowell, Mass.

IOWA RAISES ITS RAILROAD TAX

State Council Increases Assessed Valuation of This Property by $2,637,400.
Des Moines, Iowa, July 28.—The state executive council today completed the assessment of corporation property in Iowa. While the actual assessed valuation of railroad property was increased $2,637,400 as compared with 1933, the farm lands of the state have been reduced $52,415,364. Had the relative valuation of these two classes of property in 1933 been maintained this year the council would have been compelled to decrease railroad assessments $3,500,000.

SCROFULA FROM PARENT TO CHILD

The laws of heredity are inviolable and the diseased blood of parents is handed down to children in the form of Scrofula. Being thus deeply rooted nothing can reach the disease but a constitutional remedy. The very foundation of the blood is diseased, and until it is purified and made strong, those who are born with a scrofulous tendency cannot have the blessing of robust health.

Cleveland, O., 122 Brownell St.

Inherited Scrofula from my ancestry, as a means of course, weak, impure blood and a run-down, debilitated condition of the system. Treatment of physicians did not do anything like the good S. S. S. did. I did more for me than anything I have used, and with one recommendation I am completely cured of this high blood disease.

MRS. ALICE COHEN.

S. S. S., the king of blood purifiers, is the medicine that is required, because it cleanses the quality of the blood by building it up and strengthening the entire system. When S. S. S. has restored the blood to a healthy condition, it forced out the scrofulous deposits, there is a sure return to health. No remedy has ever been found to equal this great vegetable preparation for the cure of all diseases arising from a diseased or impure blood supply. If you have Scrofula or any tendency that way write us about your case and we will send you a book describing the disease and give, without charge, any medical advice you may need.

STATE OF WISCONSIN, IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR ROCK COUNTY.

In the matter of the petition of Rock County Telephone Company to take, according to law, for telephone purposes, rights, easements and interests in lands in block 44, original plat of Janesville, Rock County, Wisconsin.

On reading the petition of the Rock County Telephone Company in the above entitled matter, and it appearing that said petition was filed in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court for Rock County, Wisconsin, on the 25th day of July, 1935;

And it further appearing that said petitioner is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Wisconsin, for the purpose of conducting telephone business, the construction, erection, maintenance and operation of telephone lines, and in furnishing the public with telephonic communication to the public within the State of Wisconsin, and especially within the County of Rock and City of Janesville in said State;

That said petitioner is now and has been since its organization engaged in operating and maintaining a telephone exchange and telephone lines and in furnishing the public with telephonic communication throughout the City of Janesville and other portions of Rock County in said State;

That said petitioner desires to acquire, and makes said petition for the purpose of acquiring and taking according to the statute in such case made and provided, the right, interest and easement to maintain and operate its telephone cables in conduits beneath the surface of the ground, with such additional cables and conduits as may be from time to time placed on such lines, and of re-placing the conduits from time to time as may be necessary, within a strip of land hereinafter described, and within portions of an alley extending from East Milwaukee street to Court street in block forty-four (44), original plat of Janesville, Rock County, Wisconsin, across certain real property within the limits of said alley in said block, all more particularly described in said petition, now on file in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court for said Rock County, subject to the right of the owners, and of others to whom said owners have granted or may grant or give such right to use said strip above ground as a portion of an alley or way, and subject also to the right of said owners and others to maintain such sewers across said strip to Rock River as are now laid therein.

That said petitioner's wires have been constructed within said strip above described across each of the pieces of real property in said petition mentioned by running wires and cables in underground conduits; that said petitioner has been unable to acquire the right, easement and interest above mentioned in said real property by purchase or agreement with the owners thereof; that said petitioner intends in good faith to use said real property for telephone business and that it is required for its use for said telephone business; that none of the owners or persons interested in said lands are of unsound mind or under age, and praying that it may be determined that said petitioner is entitled to take the rights, easements and interests sought to be acquired in the lands described in said petition for said purposes, and that commissioners of appraisal be appointed according to law to ascertain and appraise the just compensation of those interested in said real property, and that the time and place of the first meeting of said commissioners be fixed.

NOW, THEREFORE, on motion of Francis C. Grant, attorney for said petitioner, it is ordered that said petition be heard before the Judge of said Court, at the Court House in the City of Janesville, Rock County, Wisconsin, on the 21st day of August, 1935, at ten (10) o'clock in the forenoon of that day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard.

That this order be served upon the owners and any occupant, and all persons interested in said lands by publication of a copy thereof in the Janesville Daily Gazette, a newspaper published in the City of Janesville, Rock County, Wisconsin, once each day for ten successive days, the first publication to be at least ten days before said hearing.

Dated 26th day of July, 1935.
By the Court,
B. F. DUNWIDDIE,
Circuit Judge.

YOST'S PARK SCENE OF BIG GATHERING

Knights of Columbus Councils of Janesville and Beloit Had Picnic Yesterday—Locals Won Ball Game.

There were nearly a thousand people in attendance at the Knights of Columbus picnic at Yost's park yesterday and the Janesville representation numbered quite 300. Kneff & Hatch's orchestra and the Beloit band played throughout the day and their efforts added much to the enjoyment of the occasion. The big picnic dinner was served at noon and in the afternoon a baseball game, tug-of-war, and other sports were inaugurated. In all of these contests the Janesville Knights vanquished their Beloit brethren, the latter being taken into camp on the diamond to the tune of 10 to 4. John Devins was in the box for the local nine and Joe Connell caught the puzzling curves. Patrick H. Garvin was the stalwart first baseman who repeatedly cut short the rising hopes of the runners and John McManus at second put up a game that made the galleries shout. John Doran had not forgotten the fine points of the game which he mastered fifteen years ago and was almost in his old form again at the third bag. James O'Donnell's game at short-stop was beyond criticism and William Dougherty, John Kennedy and William Connell did wonderful things with the high flies that soared over the garden. The Beloiters were resplendent in fine, new uniforms but this availed them nothing and when the game was over and the score announced Auctioneer Dooley mounted the platform and sold this fine regalia to the highest bidder, it being a foregone conclusion that the defeated would not care to use them again this season. Dennis Hayes was the highest bidder in the keen competition and after the auctioneer had delivered him his property by word, by word also he transferred the fine regalia to the victorious Janesville team. Undertaker Meahan of Beloit then stepped forward and offered to take possession of what remained of the Beloit team. The line-up in the game was as follows:

Janesville		Beloit
Hyzer	3b	Doran
Kacelins	2b	McManus
H. Mills	1b	Garvin
Hallsey	ss	O'Donnell

BISHOP ISAAC W. JOYCE IS DEAD OF PARALYSIS

Well-Known Methodist Church Minister Succumbs at His Home in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 28.—Bishop Isaac W. Joyce, Methodist bishop of Minnesota, died at his home, 310 Groveland avenue, at 1:20 o'clock Friday morning as the result of a cerebral hemorrhage and consequent attack of paralysis which he sustained while delivering a sermon at the Red Rock, Minn., camp meeting on Sunday, July 2.

Bishop Joyce came to Minnesota six years ago. Previous to that time he had been presiding bishop of the Methodist missionary field work in China and Japan. It is said of him that he had spoken in the cause of religion in every civilized country of the world. Before going abroad he was a pastor at Chattanooga, Tenn., for four years, and at Cincinnati, O., six years. He was a graduate of Hartzell university, a United Brethren institution of Ohio.

Bishop Joyce was 69 years old. He is survived by a widow and one son, Colonel Frank M. Joyce of this city.

In 1902 and 1903 Bishop Joyce visited the missions in South America and gave to them unusually painstaking and faithful attention and administration. During his residence in Minneapolis he devoted himself without reserve to the work of the church. From deliberate conviction he gave himself to the weaker churches, and it is a matter of record that he preached and lectured, frequently paying his own expenses and always without compensation, at ninety-two places in the northwest which never before had been visited by a bishop of Methodist communion.

His administration in China has perhaps never fully come to the knowledge of the church at large. A great tide of spiritual quickening followed him all over the celestial empire until it is doubtful if anything like it has been seen anywhere in the world in modern times. The church in that faraway quarter of the globe felt the impulse of his visit constantly and in the judgment of many on the field the gigantic strides made in China in recent years are largely traceable to his administration and influence.

BLINDED BY POISONOUS SMOKE

Girl Alleges Man Blew Noxious Vapor In Her Face.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 28.—Blinded and dazed by a poisonous smoke which a man blew in her face, 17-year-old Mary Seitz, was attacked in broad daylight. The case is one of the strangest which the police have on record. The unknown mixture which rendered the girl almost powerless was smoked in an ordinary clay pipe. The smoke was blown into the girl's face. From its effects she was dangerously ill for two days and she was hardly able to appear in police court to prosecute her assailant. Harry Valner, aged 46, the man accused, was sent to the workhouse for thirty days.

Boxing Doings.

John Middle Sky, the Indian Heavyweight --- Terry McGovern's Plan.

Ex-Champion Terry McGovern, it is said, is to attempt to regain his old time form by becoming an assistant horse race starter. It is thought that the active work and the steady exercise in the open air will bring him back to good health and will also enable him to rebalance his nervous system.

McGovern has been the victim of serious nervous affections in the last year and has become decidedly dazed

at times, due to this same complaint. If outdoor work will help him on his way to recovery, it certainly seems that no better variety of exercise could be found than the strenuous work of assistant starter.

Terry has rounded into good shape recently and is no longer seriously disturbed by any nervous afflictions, but it is thought that rambling around in the open air and in the sun before an active field of horses will bring him back to his old time form quicker than anything else which can be prescribed for him.

No matter how indefinite the claim of any man may be for the heavy-weight title, there is always a certain glamour attaching to a fighter who can be classed as a candidate, at least, for honors in this division. On this account, the pretensions of John Middle Sky, the Indian arrival from the north, are now of interest.

John Middle Sky has been brought from Canada and is said to be of fabulous proportions. He is a giant in size and strength, and it is thought that he may be able to do something impressive if he can be trained to enter the squared circle against the present leaders of the fist art. On the strength of some of his performances he is now being lightly touted as a pretender to the throne recently vacated by Jeffries.

Of course, many another giant has tried to win the title and has signally failed. The case of Conoughlin is typical of many another would be champion who has tried to wrest the laurels from a trained pugilist and who has failed.

Jeffries was talking about his early career recently, and the subject of his first fight came up.

"I was about seventeen years old when it happened," he said. "We were in Los Angeles then and I was a husky kid, but not a man yet by any means. They had a big picnic out there this day and every one in town was there, I guess. Oh, Spaniards, negroes, Mexicans, and I don't know what sort wasn't there."

"Well, in the afternoon during the dances I saw a big negro in a mixup with a bunch of fellows, and right away I wanted to get in and fight him. There was an awful roughhouse and my blood was just boiling to get in and give this big fellow just one swing. The police put a stop to the fight anyway, and Griffin—that was the negro's name, Hank Griffin—was told that I was looking for his head. He was an amateur heavyweight fighter at that time and had some little name around there as a boxer. He came over and talked to me, and I started to take my coat off right away to get in and mix it. Some of the boys stopped us and fixed up a fight which was to take place in two weeks in one of the halls there."

"Well, do you believe me, that was my first match, my first day of training and my first boxing lesson? Nine days before that fight I had never worn a boxing glove, but I started then and trained until the night of the fight, and from that evening on Mr. Griffin was a dead one."

"I wasn't a bit nervous that night when the going sounded. It seemed as though I had been a fighter all my life. Of course I thought that the moon was bigger than he really was, and all that, but as soon as I was hit it was all off. I went to the fellow like a wild bull, battering him about the body and ribs until I thought that I had smashed him in two. For three rounds he fought back savagely, but when he discovered that his blows had no effect upon me he began to back around the ring. The moment I saw him break ground I became more confident and just punched him up against the wall on the ropes and all over that little ring until he could not stand up. It was a great win for me."

Jeffries is now in San Francisco. He says he has grown tired of the show business, although there was big money in it. He says he has made $33,000 this season above all expenses.

THE GOLDEN EAGLE.

A FEW DONT'S FOR TOBACCO GROWERS

Valuable Hints for Leaf Producers. Compiled by Edward Eggert in the New York Leaf.

Edward Eggert in the "New York Leaf" has compiled a few "don'ts" for tobacco growers which apply to the production and care of the crop during the entire time which it rests on the farmer's hands. These "don'ts" are:

Don't grow more than you can take care of. One acre of well-handled tobacco will bring more money than two acres of "hogged" tobacco. Don't starve your tobacco; give it plenty to feed on and feed it on the right kind of food. The extra weight yielded will more than pay the difference.

Don't put all your fertilizer on broadcast before setting out your tobacco crop; save one-third of it to put on at second hoeing, and cultivate it in. This will carry the crop to a finish at cutting time.

Don't hang your poorest tobacco in the peak of your shed. Put your best tobacco up high and hang the poorest on bottom tiers. The cure in the top of a shed is safer and better.

Don't neglect the care when tobacco is in shed. After growing a good crop there is no sense in letting it spoil by inattention to sheds.

Don't take down your tobacco until it is cured and ready to strip and in right order. Should you have a few bad stems keep them out and tie up in small hands by the tips, using a light dry leaf, as a tie, and hang these hands over a bath, but hang them down. They will soon cure and be fit to take down at a later date.

Don't take down tobacco that is too moist or too dry; wait until it is just right.

Don't put water on your tobacco; see that your crop is in proper condition when taken down and keep it so. Water on tobacco causes nine-tenths of the trouble between buyer and grower. Most of the canker and mold damage are caused by water, and buyers have good cause to reject or dock the price on watered crops.

Don't take down tobacco that is dripping from frozen stalks. Let it drip out and dry off and wait until next damp, in order to avoid the damage of canker and mold caused by drip.

Don't strip and pack into your bundles wet tobacco, rather hang it up again to dry off and strip it next damp.

Don't strip the trash and weather-beaten leaf and put it in your bundles with the good tobacco. Keep it separate, and tie it up into hands and bales while it is in condition to handle; it will bring more than if allowed to dry and strip the sheds in piles of old and rot.

Don't make too heavy bales; use 4x8x8 paper and have box right size to get a bale of about 35 pounds.

Don't use cheap, heavy paper; it only breaks and tobacco is broken and dried out. Use the best Manila paper—125 pounds to the ream—40 x 48. This is light and tough, and the strings will not cut, and protects the tobacco and costs less. Heavy cheap paper, 200 pounds to ream, at 3½ cents per pound, costs $7 for 480 sheets. Best Manila, 125 pounds to ream, at 5½ cents per pound, costs $6.15 for 480 sheets.

Don't handle your tobacco as though it was worthless. Try to make even bundles, keeping the leaves as straight as possible, and have the bolls even. Make your bundles look as if they were packed, not thrown into the bundling box.

Don't pile your bundles in a shed where the snow can blow in on them and melt and damage the tobacco. Pile all your bundles on their sides, not over three tiers high. They won't warm up so quickly, and tobacco will mat together less, making it easier for the sizer or sorter to shake out.

Don't neglect to clean your sheds during the summer, and air them out well. A coating of four inches of clean sand over the bottoms of your sheds will pay for itself.

Don't forget that a nice, clean, orderly shed and well-handled tobacco make a good impression on a buyer.

HIGH OFFICIALS OF THE NORTHWESTERN

Stopped Over in Janesville Last Evening on an Inspection Tour—No Significance to Visit.

General Superintendent W. D. Cantillon, Assistant General Manager R. H. Ashton, Master Mechanic John A. Heath of the Wisconsin division, Ship, P. J. O'Brien of the North Wisconsin division, and Division Superintendent Frank Pechin of the Northwestern railroad arrived in Janesville at 6:05 p. m. last evening aboard a special car which was switched onto the depot siding for the night. Sup. Pechin returned to Chicago on the 7:10 train but the balance of the party remained here for the night, departing early this morning for Fond du Lac. "There is absolutely no significance to the visit," said General Agent D. J. Lindsey when an inquiry was made of him this morning regarding the report of a supposed conference with St. Paul railroad officials and possible changes and improvements in Janesville which rumor had it were under consideration. "The officials came here to inspect the track between Chicago and this city and left for Fond du Lac this morning to continue their work along the same line. They stopped over in Janesville in order to make the run to Fond du Lac by daylight."

Motor Outruns Dog.

In an exhausted condition a collie dog was found at Rainow, a Cheshire (Eng.) village, and returned to its owner at Newcastle, North. The animal had evidently followed its master's motor car and must have covered eighty miles in the day.
